

This is really interesting.

I wish I could meet him.

Peter's dream: April 18, 1775

I'm sorry!
Are you okay! Who are you?

I'm sorry!
Are you okay! Who are you?

I'm Peter
Neilson.

I'm Paul Revere.

Wait you're Paul Revere!

I read a book about you!

Yep.

Awesome.
Follow me.

Come inside

Ask away

I presume you were looking for me?

Yes

Do you have some questions for me?

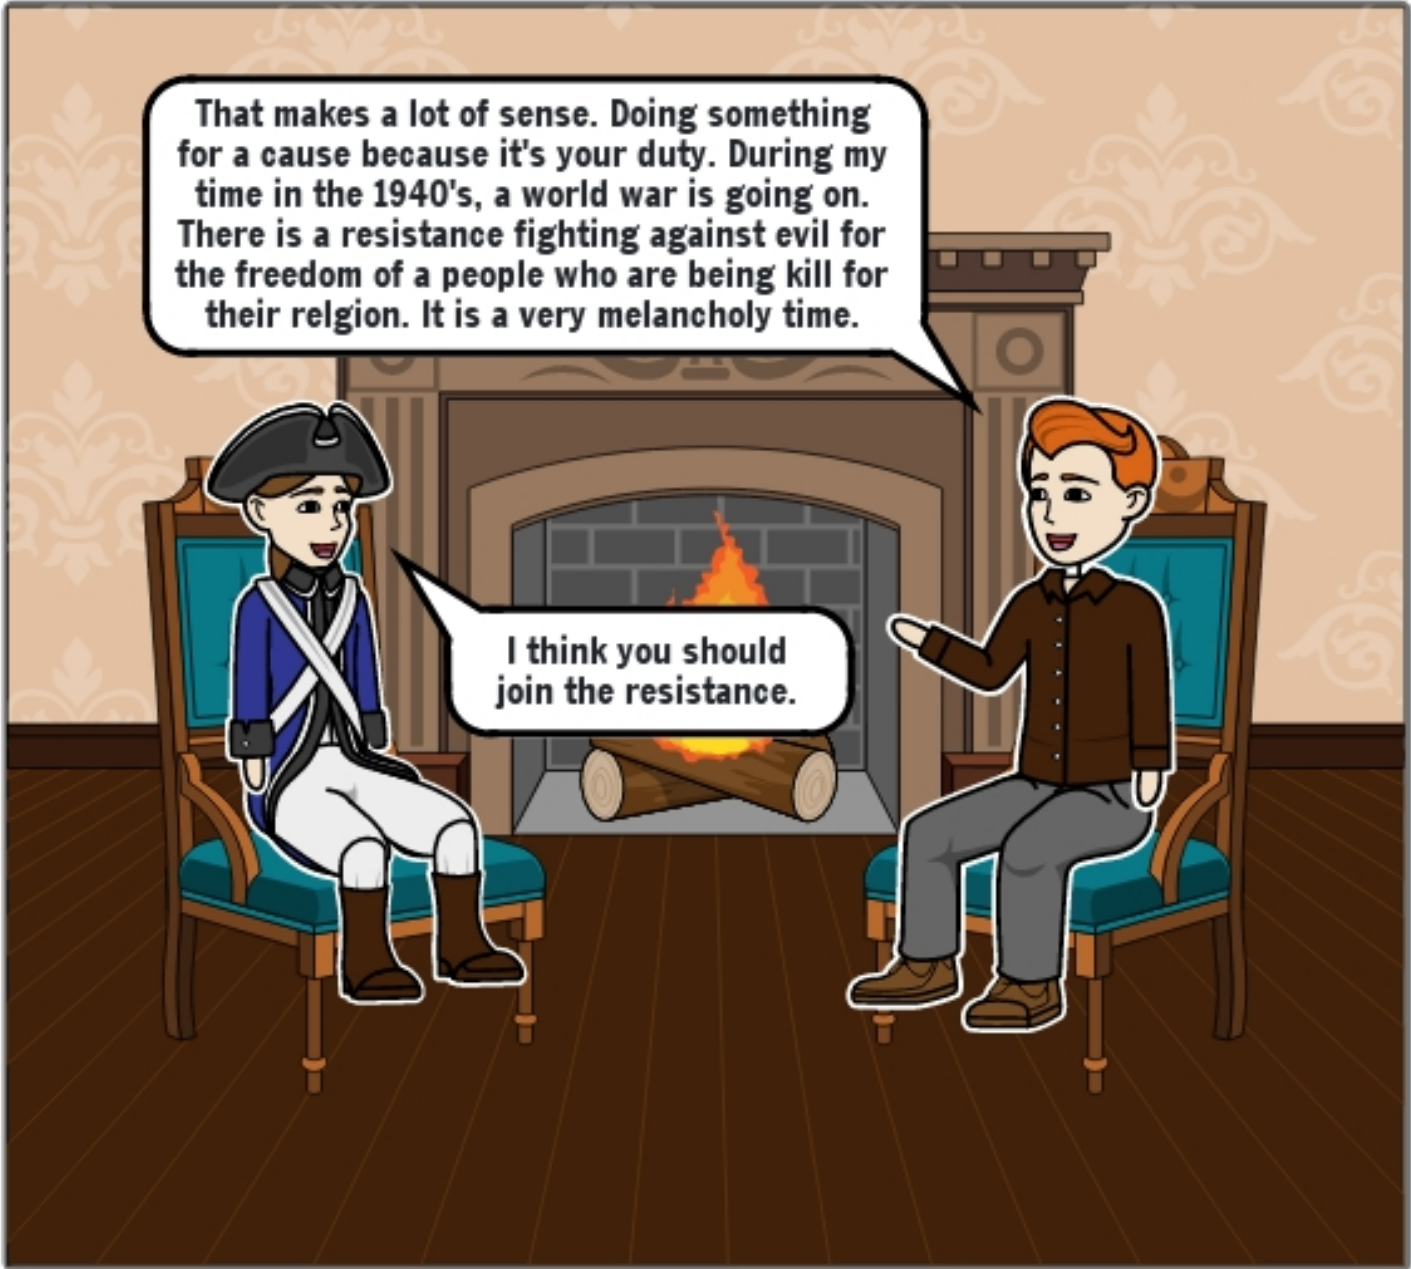

Yes

Okay. Why did you take part in the midnight ride.

Well I took part because if I didn't a lot of people would have died. Also the British had taken away our rights in taxes and I couldn't let that go. I know that Prescott and Dawes did it too and they probably would have completed the mission but I felt that my duty was to join.

That makes a lot of sense. Doing something for a cause because it's your duty. During my time in the 1940's, a world war is going on. There is a resistance fighting against evil for the freedom of a people who are being kill for their religion. It is a very melancholy time.

I think you should join the resistance.

Why?

It's because the odds of that group of people surviving go up by a little if you join the cause to save them. It is also a very honorable thing to do.

But the odds only go up a little bit.

Yet they still go up.

Also, it sounds like the group doing the prosecuting will not stop until every person is dead and no one should do that. You have to help and put a stop to it. It would be a tragedy if they all were killed wouldn't it.

Actually, now that you say that, it makes a lot of sense. People shouldn't die because of their religion.

Yes. Now do you see why you should join the resistance.

Yes. In fact I think I will join the resistance.

Thank you for showing me that I should join the resistance and save the lives of many people. Thank you for showing me that, to make a change in a sorrowful and horrible time, you have to fight.

I'm glad I could change your mind. Good luck on your journey to freeing that group of people Mr. Neilson.

Prison

Dear Family,

I hope you are doing well. I have been captured by the Nazis and am due to be executed tomorrow. I know that joining the resistance was dangerous but I still joined anyway and don't regret it. I'm sure you would like to know why I joined and I shall tell you. At first I was hesitant to join but I then had a dream about running into Paul Revere and he convinced me to join the fight against the Nazis. It is wrong for a group of people to be killed for their religion. That's why I joined the resistance and tried to put a stop to the torment of the Jews. I love you all.

Make me proud. Good bye.

Sincerely,
Peter
